MORE PUBLICITY FOR THIS FERTILE VALLEY

In its editorial columns the Oklahoma Oklahoman recently had the following complimentary mention of the big dam of which every Salt River Valley citizen is proud:

"For four years water has been slowly climbing behind a massive granite dam in Arizona. Now it pours over the top and thousands of people are traveling miles to see it. It is quite ordinary water, but far from an ordinary dam, and far from an ordinary occasion that marks the flowing of a stream over its crest.

"It is the Roosevelt dam, built by the United States government to reclaim thousands of acres of arid land. Two hundred and eighty-five feet the mountain of granite rises from its bed of rock, impounding a lake twenty miles long that has been slowly filling since the completion of the dam in 1911. Lands hitherto useless will receive the blessing of that imprisoned flood, and add their contribution to the productivity of the southwest. In view of the importance of the undertaking it need surprise no one that ambitious natives already propose to have the region of the big dam set apart as a national park.

"The Roosevelt dam represents national conservation at its best. An undertaking that transforms 200,000 acres of waste land into productive fields, at the same time producing a vast quantity of electrical energy at low cost, bespeaks constructive Americanism."—Miami Silver Belt.

CITY FATHERS AS EQUALIZERS

City Commission Finds No Work to do as Board of Equalization and Revenues to Consider Other Matters

The city board of equalization, which under ordinary circumstances is known as the city commission, met yesterday morning, announced it was in session and there being nothing requiring equalizing at that time, adjourned and re-convened as the city commission. The commission immediately launched into a discussion of the ordinance submitted with the approval and at the instance of the Merchants and Manufacturers providing for the consolidation of several of the more important city offices. Among the proposed consolidations are the offices of city clerk and city magistrate, city assessor and city treasurer, and city engineer and city building inspector.

No action was taken on the proposed consolidation ordinance, it being suggested that in view of the several amendments to the city charter voted upon at the recent general city election not yet having been approved by Governor Hunt, it would be well to await that formality which was carried out later in the day.

The matter of the proposed widening of Van Buren street brought a surprise when Commissioner Richey, who has been delving into the past, raised the unique point that by virtue of early federal statutes enacted into territorial law in 1871, every section line was reserved as a public highway. In the same year the board of supervisors specifically designated Van Buren street a section line, sixty-six feet in width. Commissioner Richey pointed out that it was some of this land which it was proposed the city should buy for the purpose of widening Van Buren street. The city attorney was instructed to look into the situation and make a report at the earliest possible date.

The report of the city manager, embodying the monthly reports of the various department heads was submitted and ordered filed without being read. Mrs. Mattie Williams and Miss Telford addressed the commission in behalf of the proposed widening of Van Buren street. The city manager was informed that the city manager was preparing to place a fountain on trial at Central avenue and Washington street. The practicability of this fountain being shown, Manager Craig proposed to place two or three dozen more such fountains at convenient spots about the city.

The proposed ordinance fixing a special license fee and establishing a special route for motor vehicles for hire playing between the city and Riverside park, did not meet with the approval of Commissioner Richey and after some discussion the matter was referred to Commissioner Richey and City Attorney Christy with instructions to prepare a new ordinance to be submitted to the commission.

The commission approved the application of W. B. Lount, appearing for Mrs. Hattie Mosher, that the order of City Building Inspector H. J. Mann be lifted with reference to the construction of a roof over a building now in the course of construction over the town ditch. The commission found that all buildings in proximity were constructed under an old ordinance which permitted the class of work Mrs. Mosher desired to carry out, and without prejudice to the building inspector, whose action was thoroughly approved, permission was granted in this instance for the work to proceed.

The commission will again meet this morning as the board of equalization may take some action with reference to the proposed consolidation of offices, the government late yesterday having approved the amendments to the city charter.

ESCAPE IS AT ARIZONA
FOR LAST TIME TONIGHT

"The Escape" said by a majority of Phoenix movie fans to be one of the most wonderful pictures ever taken extending to please the multitude at the Arizona last night. The story with its prologue is marvelous. The last showing of this picture will be this evening.

There is a prologue to "The Escape" which contains the suggestive history of life from its earliest stages in the form of microscopic representation of the growth and breeding of various forms of life. In this prologue reel is indicated the care taken in breeding horses, dogs, cats, pigs and various animals. Then in contrast is shown the utter carelessness, the absolute disregard, with which human beings are permitted to marry without any preparation for their sacred and responsible duties of parenthood. Only physical attraction and ability to support are the questions shown to be involved under present conditions. In the opening of the story, Jennie Joyce and her mother are seen in their home, Jennie is consumptive, and her coughing seriously interrupts her work. Later the son, Edies in May, the other sister, seems apparently unharmed physically by her terrible parentage. The father comes in, in a drunken and ugly mood. He quarrels with the son and kills him with a stove lid. It is May's "escape" from this sordid scene which starts the story, told in an interesting and often thrilling manner.

At the Plaza
"The Yellow Traffic" in four reels, makes up a stellar program at the Plaza that is hard to beat both for thrills and strong features. In addition to the picture, the program includes a variety of other attractions.

REPORTS OF MINING COMPANIES ARE FILED

Reports from many of the mining companies of the state were received yesterday at the office of the state tax commission, and placed on file for valuation purposes.

Among the reports filed yesterday were those of the Ray Consolidated, by L. S. Cates, manager; the United Verde Copper company, by Will L. Clark, manager; the Old Dominion Copper Mining and Smelting company; the United Globe Mines, and the Tom Reed Mining company. Yesterday was the last day set for the filing of reports.

In addition to this film they are showing a Kay B. entitled the "Open Doors." The Harts have just finished a four weeks' engagement at the Plaza, and from now on the little theater with its strong clientele is going in again for straight pictures. Many big features have been booked for the near and far future, and a visit to the bandbox-like show house will amply repay the venture.

At the Columbia

With the matinee this afternoon, and the performance this evening, "Mignon" featuring Beatriz Michelena will have its last showing. Miss Michelena scored a huge success, and the film itself is all that could be desired. For the change Wednesday and Thursday, Clara Kimball Young will again appear in "Lola," without doubt Miss Young's greatest portrayal. "Lola" is really being run again "by request" at the Columbia management has had many calls for the return of the film, and a great many were unable to witness it when shown at another theater in this city, will be given opportunity to see their favorite star at her very best.

At the Lamara

The Lamara Theater is offering for the behoof and amusement of its patrons today and tomorrow a picture representation of Arthur Hughes' great screen "Officer 666," which was produced by Cohan and Harris in their New York theater with such great success last winter. Of course, the story centers around a mistaken dual personality. It seems that one of the most prolific sources of fun for the American stage. A returning millionaire, young, handsome and with some presence, but not very well known to all the members of the household, returns home. On the same day a very noted picture thief also returns to the house of the millionaire looking for a clean up and he is mistaken for the returning millionaire. Result situations and everything else that goes to bring forth the laugh.

Phelan, "Officer 666" has his suspicions about the entire proposition, of course, as a bright Irish member of the force should have, but situations are multiplied and added when young Travers masquerades as "Officer 666" in order to catch the picture thief, who during his presence and masquerade as Travers, has made love to his sweetheart. This is plenty. The reader can get a glimpse from this of what is in store in this great picture which can be seen at the Lamara, the home of "The world's best pictures." Remember it is always cool at the Lamara.

COLISEUM COMEDY CO. STILL GOING STRONG

Pursuant to the policy inaugurated by the management of the Coliseum, shortly after the House and Allard company took precedence on the program at the big musical comedy house, another feature will follow the presentation of the present feature bill, "A Night Out." "Never Again" will take the boards and endeavor to follow up the success now so well started. The playlet in a one-act tabloid form, and is taken from one of the biggest eastern successes.

Last evening the company played to a large, well satisfied house, and the evening comedy put over by Billy House, the state representative of the beef trust, and his abbreviated edition Allard, was there to a finish.

Miss Florence Lane singing "Time brings a Wonderful Change" was in good voice, and her pleasing personality aided materially to bring out her marked talent. Beginning last night, Allard introduced a new stunt for Phoenix in a new dance, called "Ballin' the Jack," accompanied by an original song "Pray For the Lights to Stay Out." The dance is a new outcropping of the dance craze in the east, and it is the first time that it has ever been put on in Phoenix.

An addition to the chorus has been made, helping out that portion of the show considerably. Several new girls are on their way from the coast.

Fielding, Pleases at Empress

Tonight only that popular program will be shown at the Empress. It consists of a two-part Lubin, "The Clod," featuring Romaine Fielding, as this is the regular Fielding day. There is no use saying any more about that, as the people of Phoenix know by this time how to appreciate his works. Then comes that beautiful picture, "Mother's Roses." That name alone should draw a capacity house, for both shows. This picture shows plainly how the vision of Mother, with her arms full of roses saved her family from financial trouble and ruin. Those who have a mother know how to appreciate her and those who have seen their loving mother pass into the great beyond have no doubt, dreamed dreams and saw visions of that mother. No one can see this picture with more fully appreciating that noble woman who cared for them in their infancy and to whom they owe more than to anyone one earth.

"The Final Reckoning at the Lion"

A picture that will prove interesting to every observer is shown at the Lion Theater today. Flo LaRade and Morris Foster play the leading parts and are supported by a fine cast. "The Final Reckoning" is a picture filled with action and was taken along the construction work of the great Croton Aqueduct, and there is also a thrilling fire scene. The name "Final Reckoning" does not sound like much, but it's a good picture and one well worth seeing. "Only A Tramp," a Reliance drama and a very funny Keystone comedy called "Love in Armor" finish the program in a nice manner. Tomorrow the Lion shows the funniest of comedies, "That Little Band of Gold," in which Ford Sterling, Mabel Normand and Fatty Arbuckle play the leads.

NEW YUMA BRIDGE TO BE DEDICATED SOON

Elaborate Celebration Planned for May 22 and 23, When New Link Will be opened Formally

The new interstate highway bridge across the Colorado river at Yuma, the latest link in the southern transcontinental routes, will be dedicated with imposing ceremonies May 22 and 23. Hundreds of invitations from the Yuma County Commercial club to attend the dedicatory celebration have been sent out to all parts of the state and to other parts of the country, and it is expected that there will be many automobile parties to Yuma on account of the formal opening of the bridge to traffic.

Yuma boosters have raised over $1000 toward the celebration, and are planning a monster celebration over the opening of this important link in the transcontinental highways. An enormous electric sign, 200 feet long, bearing the words "Yuma, Ocean to Ocean Highway" in letters six feet high will be mounted on the bridge. Governor Hunt and a number of state officials are planning to attend the celebration.

Glendale's trained nurse is in attendance.

Mrs. Ada Stewart Carson entertained Mrs. Augusta Klinefelter and Mrs. Howard at six o'clock dinner, Friday.

Rev. Stewart of Phoenix preached at Washington, Sunday.

Miss Alice Satter will be given a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Leek, Tuesday evening in honor of her approaching marriage to Mr. Zares Scott.

Rudolph Kuecker, Sam Staud, Miss Anna Hauert, Mrs. Augusta Klinefelter, Mr. Lee Klinefelter, Mrs. Frank P. Howard, Miss Faith Saul and Miss Diller went to the Capitol city, Monday morning on the eight o'clock interurban line.

Mr. Marriott shipped 90 head of his line registered Holstein Friesians cows to Fresno California. His son, Mitchell, and Frank Howard Jr. accompanied him. They will take in the exhibitions at San Francisco and San Diego before they return.

Miss Lucille Etter has been kept at home from high school at Glendale by the illness of her mother.
